MR. HALL'S INTEREST BILL. The question is often mosted why the local advantages, has failed in securing capital? The answer is simply that the sultamay crown the enterprise of Messrs. local rate of interest, six per cent., does Charles & Campunt, will be the wish of nonlined candidates for President and Vice President of the United States, at the ensuing President of the United States, at the e consequence thereof, the modus operandi factures in the Manmee Valley. adopted by parties needing money is such as no frank or honorable man desires. He is obliged to resort to acts of secrecy and stratagem to accomplish that which should be left merely to the act of his own judg-

This Bill of Mr. HALL's, if it becomes the law, will obviate many of the financial difficulties we have adverted to, and will famish sufficient inducements for eastern or foreign capitalists to luan their money in this State, thus aiding in the development of its general and special interests. It is a noticeable feature of this bill that it proposes to deal only with engagements between parties under special contracts; in all other cases the interest remains as it now is at six per cent. The provisions of the bill are so reasonably just, and necessary, that we really hope it will become the law.

Mr. HALL deserves much credit for this and other measures of a highly practical eral presperity of Wood County will amaz ingly advance.

The attention of the Republicans of Ohio is most carnestly invited to this call, in the hope that it will receive their prompt attention.

The campaign of 1808, in the issues it involves, the campaign of 1808, in the issues it involves, the campaign of 1808, in the issues it involves, the most important we have ever been learning of countries are gathered in this one voltage of the most important we have ever been learning of countries are gathered in this one voltage.

present General Assembly, in reaccinding the rati-lication of the Constitutional Amendment and the lication of the Constitutional Amendment and the proposed instructions to our members of Congress to vote for the repeal of the Reconstruction acts.

We must have patience in the labor of Reconstruction. It is not the work of a day. The machinations of a perfidious Executive, aided by a powerful and determined party bargely composed of defeated rebels have served to delay the execution of the wishes of the loyal majority of the country, but cannot prevent it if we are as faithful to our trust in the future as we have been in the past.

Reverses may meet us in the execution of our Reverses may meet us in the execution of our policy now, as they did during the war, but they must not cause us to falter in the course marked out. Rather should they nerve us to renewed energy and more determined effort.

The result of last fall's election has been most happily modified by the recent glorious victory won by the gallant Republicans of the Eighth District. Last their spirit animate all the Districts, and the campaign of 1838 will be as cheering in its results as those of 1831 and 1884.

Very truly, your friends in the cause.
